

ABOUT US

Dress up by Design

Travis Designs has been trading since 1960 and is a family owned business now led by the second generation who are committed to full time, hands on participation in the business.

Our primary expertise is in Children's role play costumes where we work with a range of High Street Retailers, Independent shops and Website customers. Travis Designs also supply children's party wear, occasion wear, dancewear and swimwear to offer a varied range of products to existing and new customers.

The Travis dressing up costume house brand is the Dress Up By Design range. This brand is celebrating its 10 year anniversary this year and is well established across Europe, selling into department stores, childrenswear shops, independent toy & gift shops and web retailers.

We have a team of nine distributors working in Europe, who each ensure strong sales in their particular region. We have recently added distributors for the USA and Canada to our portfolio.

Our close knit team are highly skilled, committed to the Company and passionate about the product that we develop. We work with factories in Europe and China who pride themselves in producing a quality product on time.

Product safety and testing to today's stringent toy requirements are also closely adhered to.
